- 1 The most seaward extent of the Planning Area is determined by an international maritime boundary or agreement, International Court of Justice ruling, or another Planning Area.
 - 2 The most seaward extent of the Planning Area extends beyond the Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ) Limit as defined in 60 FR 43825, August 23, 1995, to the limit of the Official Protraction Diagrams. This limit will be adjusted in the future once the official EEZ Limit is determined and /or the United States claim under Article 76 of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea is established.
 - 3 The most seaward extent of the Planning Area is currently determined by a provisional maritime boundary and the limit of the Official Protraction Diagrams, and will be adjusted once a U.S.-Cuba maritime boundary treaty is ratified.
